WhiteWater Teams

It's not a "how to" workshop—it's a "we did" experience!

What is WhiteWater Teams?

Vital businesses thrive in constant whitewater, always looking for opportunities and riding the waves of change. WhiteWater Teams is an adventure in building teams that thrive in business whitewater.

Most learning workshops invite the participants to listen to a message and imagine using it when they get home. That's like trying to learn whitewater rafting by sitting in an auditorium and hearing what it may be like if you ever actually go to a river.

WhiteWater Teams takes you directly to business whitewater. You are selected for a team, you work together to learn tasks, you present your products to the other members of the workshop, and you compete over and over again in the workshop marketplace to really learn these skills.

No one is voted off the team or is fired from the competition like on "reality tv." It's more real than that. You gain the skills you need for your real life and business and you have fun doing it.

Workshop Guides:

Kim Simmons and Tom Foucault of Whitewater Strategies, Inc. have assembled a staff that will guide you through the rapids of effective teaming. Each facilitator brings over twenty years experience in building organizations that survive and excel in the organizational whitewater of change and continuous improvement. Together, we will explore the principles and practices of High Performance.

What's in it for Me and My Company?

- Become a catalyst for change in your organization.
- Increase productivity by understanding what helps and hinders your work processes.
- Reinvent your methods for dealing with conflict.
- Learn to face challenges with creative solutions.
- Experience sorting through ambiguous customer expectations and taking action.

*These leaders are by no means ordinary people.
They work out there on the frontier
where tomorrow is taking shape,
and they serve here as guides—guides to things as they are and as they will be.*
